BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF THE

Academy of Medicine of Cincinnati.

The Academy of Medicine was organized, March 5th, 1857, at a meeting held for that purpose in the Lecture Room of Bacon's Building, northwest corner of Walnut and Sixth streets. The following gentlemen were present and took part in the organization: William Judkins, M. D., Stephen Bonner, M. D., C. G. Comegys, M. D., J. P. Judkins, M. D., William Clendenin, M. D., E. B. Stevens, M. D., J. A. Murphy, M. D., Henry E. Foote, M. D., William H. Mussey, M. D., Joseph Byrd Smith, M. D., John F. White, M. D., E. Williams, M. D., Alex. M. Johnston, M. D., and C. B. Hughes, M. D. Dr. J. B. Smith was elected Temporary Chairman, and C. B. Hughes, Secretary.

Dr. William H. Mussey presented a constitution, which, after discussion and amendment, was adopted—first each article separately, and then as a whole. The constitution herein published is the same as was then adopted.*

After the adoption of the Constitution, the following gentlemen were elected to serve as officers during the ensuing year: President, R. D. Mussey, M. D.; First Vice President,

* When weekly meetings were instituted instead of monthly, the Constitution and By-Laws were changed accordingly.

J. B. SMITH, M. D.; Second Vice President, ROBERT R. McILVAINE, M. D.; Recording Secretary, C. B. HUGHES, M. D.; Corresponding Secretary, C. G. COMEGYS, M. D.; Treasurer, WILLIAM CLENLENIN, M. D.; Librarian, JESSE P. JUDKINS, M. D.

On motion of Dr. E. Williams, a committee of three, consisting of Drs. Williams, Comegys, and Foote, was appointed to draw up suitable By-Laws to be presented to the Academy at a meeting to be held in two weeks from that time; namely, March 19th, for its consideration and adoption.

The special meeting mentioned was held in Dr. Mussey's office—Dr. J. B. Smith, First Vice President, presiding. The committee appointed for the purpose having reported a code of By-Laws, it was, after each section had been considered separately, adopted as a whole.

At this meeting Dr. R. R. McIlvaine resigned his office as Second Vice President, and Dr. J. F. White was elected to fill the place.

Also at this meeting Dr. Williams presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to prepare a communication for the city papers and medical journals setting forth the objects contemplated in the formation of the Academy of Medicine.

The resolution was adopted, and Drs. Williams, McIlvaine, and Stevens, were appointed.

For some reason or other not known, the committee never performed the duty assigned it, and on the second of the following November it was discharged, and Drs. Heighway, White, and Bonner appointed. These gentlemen, too, failing to report, were relieved at a meeting held April 5th, 1858.

On the evening of April 6th, following the organization, the Academy commenced to hold its meetings regularly in the Lecture Room of Bacon's Building, which had been secured for the purpose at fifty dollars a year. It continued to meet there until March 7th, 1859, when it commenced to hold its sessions at the office of Dr. J. F. White, northwest corner of Fourth and Race streets, up stairs over the drug store of Stevens and Snyder. From there it removed, February 6th, 1860, to its present pleasant and capacious Hall in the Dental College on College street.

At the regular meeting held May 4th, Dr. R. D. Mussey, the venerable President, delivered his Inaugural Address. On account of advanced age and infirmity he did not preside again during the year. The Secretary, Dr. Hughes, thus sketches the address: "Prof. Mussey then proceeded to deliver his inaugural address, touching upon what he understood to be the principal objects to be attained by the establishment of the Academy; namely, the investigation and discussion of such subjects as vital statistics; public and private hygiene; the adulteration of food; progress of medicine and surgery; conditions of the atmosphere in relation to epidemics; original observations of disease; the encouragement of medical scholarship; and of making the proceedings of the Academy the basis of public opinion on matters pertaining to medicine. The Dr. concluded by hoping that a love of truth would prevail over rivalry and dissention. It was this hope that had induced him to accept the honor that the Academy had been pleased to bestow upon him."

At a meeting held March 8th, 1858, Dr. C. B. Hughes offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Academy to confer with committees of the Cincinnati Medical Society and the Médico-Chirurgical Society—if these societies deem it proper to appoint such committees—upon the expediency of a union of them with the Academy."

Drs. Almy, Clendenin, and Hughes, were appointed the committee.

On the evening of the 13th of the following September, the committee having reported that they had made no progress in accomplishing the object for which they had been appointed were discharged. Both these societies have long since ceased to exist. The Academy of Medicine, however, still remains in the full vigor of its strength and greatness, constantly enlarging its sphere of usefulness and influence, which has become wide spread—extending over the whole country—founded, as it is, upon a broad and solid basis, having underlying democratic principles and the cultivation of science only.

The first essay read before the Academy was at the next regular June meeting after the organization, by C. G. Comegys, M. D., on the “Adulteration of Food.”

In view of the facts set forth a resolution was proposed to petition the City Council to pass such ordinances as should create a permanent commission, clothed with full powers to investigate thoroughly the nature and extent of the adulteration of the chief articles used as food and beverages by the people of Cincinnati. After discussion of the resolution, pro and con, it was laid on the table.

Besides the one of Dr. Comegys there were read during the first year the following essays: Dr. J. F. White on Tobacco; Dr. L. M. Lawson on The Precursory Stage of Phthisis Pulmonalis; Dr. E. B. Stevens on Vital Instinct; Dr. Krause on Conception.

During the second year Dr. E. Williams read an essay on Cysticercus in the Human Eye; Dr. H. E. Foote on Sun Stroke; Dr. W. T. Brown on Adulterations of Milk in Large Cities; Dr. Geo. Mendenhall on the Use of Anæsthetics in Labor; Dr. Krause on Injuries of the Elbow Joint.

During the third year the following essays were read: Dr. W. H. McReynolds on Diphtheria; Dr. W. H. Taylor on Prolapsus of the Vagina; Dr. E. B. Stevens on Vaccine Disease; Dr. J. A. Thacker on Delirium Tremens; Dr. W. H. Mussey on Purulent Infection following Inflammation of the Veins; Dr. R. R. McIlvaine on The Claims of Cod Liver Oil as a Therapeutic Agent; Dr. J. A. Murphy on the same.

During the fourth year Dr. E. Williams read an essay on Diseases of the Membrum Tympani; Dr. Wm. Judkins on Erysipelatous Inflammation; Dr. C. T. Simpson on Iodism; Dr. J. B. Smith on A Case of Puerperal Convulsions; Dr. Geo. Mendenhall on Poisoning by Cannabis Indicus; Dr. Jos. T. Webb on Chloroform and Ether; Dr. D. S. Gans on the Frequency of Conception in Anemia and other Constitu- tional Diseases of Women; the same gentleman on Vaccination.

During the fifth year the following papers were read: Dr. A. Bruen on Vaccination and Revaccination; Dr. Thornton on Action of Mercury in Increasing Secretion of Bile; Dr. Gans on Puerperal Fever, three papers; Dr. Williams on Foreign Bodies in the Eye; Dr. Almy on Progress of Medicine; Dr. McIlvaine on Influence of Marriage of Consanguinity upon Offspring.

During the sixth year the following: Dr. Tate on The Use of Obstetrical Forceps; Dr. Almy on Diseases in Cincinnati in which Abstraction of Blood seems Necessary, and, in some Cases, Indispensable; Dr. Gans on Thrombosis; Dr. Tate on Progress of Obstetrics.

During the seventh year: Dr. John Davis on Diphtheria; Dr. Murphy on Propriety of Operative Proceedings in Cases of Fistula in Ano in Phthisical Patients; Dr. Roelker on Tænia and Cysticercus; Dr. Gans on The Pathology and Peculiar Characteristics of Diseases of Old Age; Dr. Roelker on Summer Diseases of Children; Dr. Williams on Trachoma; Dr. Thacker on Moral Insanity; Dr. T. Wood on Ovarian Tumors.

Eighth year: Dr. Buckner on Chloroform.

The Academy held its meetings monthly from the time of its organization until it removed its sessions into its present Hall, when it commenced holding weekly meetings—every Monday evening. From the time weekly meetings were instituted the interest in the Academy rapidly increased. The number of members has more than doubled. The average attendance of members has quadrupled, while there is nearly always a large audience of spectators composed of gentlemen of the regular profession and medical students. The discussions, too, have assumed an increased importance, and are largely participated in by all the members. The discussion of a single subject will sometimes be protracted for several weeks, so great will be the interest manifested in it. It is no more than proper to mention that the first mover in the matter to meet weekly instead of monthly, and who was its most zealous advocate until it was accomplished, was Dr. Robert R. McIlvaine. There is reason to believe that very much of the present prosperity of the Academy is due to this change.

The number of essays read before the Academy has of late been declining. This is probably due to the lengthy discussions that frequently follow upon questions sprung upon the Academy, and not from any diminution of interest on the part of the members. Reports of cases, too, often afford topics for long and profitable discussion—a single case not unfrequently leading to the thorough canvassing of a disease. It is to be hoped, however, that more papers will be prepared and read hereafter.

At a meeting held March 8th, 1858, the Code of Ethics of the American Medical Association was adopted. This was done in order to fulfil the necessary requirement in order to secure representation in that organization. Since that period the Academy has always sent its full complement of delegates. This year, 1865, the delegation consists of nine members.

In order to secure a more prompt attendance of members and to make the contribution of essays regular and sure, Dr. H. E. Foote proposed, March 5th, 1860, that the Constitution be so amended that any member absenting himself for six consecutive meetings, without excuse, should be dropped from the roll. Also, that an essay upon some medical subject should be read at the first meeting of each month, and that members should be required to read in rotation, taking their names alphabetically.

When this amendment came up for consideration on the 18th of the following June it was tabled. At the regular meeting held March 11th, 1861, it was taken up from the table, and the first part passed, but the latter was again laid on the table. At a subsequent meeting, however, the part that had become a law was rescinded, as it was found to operate injuriously against the interests of the Academy.

The following is a list of the officers that have been elected to the present time. We have already given those that were elected the first year, so we will omit them here.

Ninth year: President, R. R. McILVAINE, M. D.; First Vice President, JOHN DAVIS, M. D.; Second Vice President, G. A. DOHERTY, M. D.; Recording Secretary, C. P. WILSON, M. D.; Corresponding Secretary, E. B. STEVENS, M. D.; Treasurer, W. H. TAYLOR, M. D.; Librarian, J. B. SMITH, M. D.

It is with profound sorrow we mention the death of several of the most active and valuable members of the Academy; namely, W. KRAUSE, M. D.; WM. JUDKINS, M. D.; D. S. GANS, M. D.; L. M. LAWSON, M. D., and J. B. SMITH, M. D. In the decease of these gentlemen not only the Academy, but the community also, suffered a very great loss; for they were earnest and disinterested laborers for, and administrators to, the welfare of both, and were held in the highest esteem. Each one was cut down in the very midst of his activity and usefulness. It is to be hoped that our loss will be their gain.

Dr. William Krause was a young man but a few years from Germany. In the short time he was a resident here, he obtained a first rank in the profession, and was highly esteemed by all.

Dr. Wm. Judkins was an old veteran in the profession. In the number of years he had practiced in the city, he was the senior practitioner. He always took an active part in the proceedings of the Academy, and his demise was a source of sorrow to all. An excellent Christian gentleman, may his ashes rest in peace.

In the death of Dr. Gans "the Academy of Medicine feels that it has been deprived of one of its most useful and active members; who, by the constancy of his devotions to his academic duties, afforded a bright example for the younger members of the profession."—(Res. of Academy.) Dr. Gans' contributions of essays were always of the most valuable kind. He was thoroughly posted in the literature of the profession. He died, December 14th, 1864, greatly lamented by all.

Dr. L. M. Lawson is too well known for it to be necessary for us to say anything in regard to him. He was not merely an eminent man in the profession of this city, but throughout our whole country; and even in Europe were his abilities recognized and acknowledged. He connected himself with the Academy during the first year of its existence. He died January 21st, 1864, aged fifty-one.

The death of Dr. Joseph Byrd Smith, which took place May 12th, of this year, was a heavy blow to the Academy. By it, it was deprived of one of its most active and valuable members. His presence will be long missed by all. In the discussions he always took an active and leading part. For several years he devoted much attention to obstetrics. It is said of him that "as an accoucheur, few men were his equals. Especially is this true of him so far as the management of difficult parturition was concerned. His tact in the use of the forceps, and in all cases indeed where interference was necessary, was marked and even remarkable. His obstetrical practice for the last twelve years has been larger than that of any other practitioner in the city."

over two hours unless a majority express a desire for a longer continuance by vote.

AMENDMENTS.

1. The following resolutions were passed at a special meeting held February 9th, 1860. They were introduced by Dr. L. M. Lawson, now deceased:

Resolved, That hereafter the public shall not be invited to attend the meetings of the Academy.

Resolved, That the proceedings of the Academy shall not be published in the newspapers, and shall only appear in medical journals, except on extraordinary occasions, and then by permission of the Academy.

2. In February, 1863, Drs. B. F. Richardson, Thomas Carroll, and James Graham were appointed a committee to enquire into certain charges made before the Academy, that apothecaries of the city were in the habit of making prescriptions for the sick, that they sometimes charged excessive prices for their medicines; and against other parties who did other things obnoxious to the profession and injurious to the community. The committee subsequently reporting that the charges had been sustained, by its advice the Academy passed the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, That apothecaries are expected to make no prescriptions themselves, or compound and keep for sale, or popular use, the prescriptions of physicians.

2. Resolved, That apothecaries are expected to charge no improper, exorbitant or extra fee for medicines or other things ordered of them for the sick.

3. Resolved, That it is the plain duty of every physician to see that his profession or patients suffer no imposition from apothecaries, surgical instrument makers, leechers, or others, and it is required that each member of the Academy shall make due report of any and every such offense.

4. Resolved, That any one, apothecary, leecher, or instrument maker, offending in either of the things above stated, it shall be the duty of the members of the Academy to discourage the patronage of such person.

5. Resolved, That the obligation between apothecaries, instrument makers, and leechers, on the one part, and ourselves on the other, are to a great extent reciprocal, and it therefore becomes our duty to defend these, or any of them, against unjust complaints of incompetency, over charges for medicines, instruments, leeching, or other service rendered in behalf of our patients.

6. Resolved, That this be printed and a copy of it sent to each apothecary, surgical instrument maker, and leecher of the city.

In June, 1863, the following resolution was passed :

Resolved, That a fee of five dollars be charged for making out a certificate of health for the benefit of a Life Insurance Company for a patient, and the same to be demanded from the company.
